Conditions of Publication

1. All articles may be edited. Real Restate Solutions reserves the right to edit your submission for clarity, conciseness, length or other reasons. If the article is edited for content, rather than spelling and grammar, you will have the opportunity to see your article before it is published.
2. Submissions that are unfair, biased, inflammatory or unethical, as determined by the editorial staff, will be rejected.
3. All decisions concerning submissions will be made by the editorial board. All decisions of the editorial board are final.
4. Humorous submission will be accepted provided they are not offensive, raunchy or in poor taste. While we encourage a satirical look at our various professions, we are sensitive to the feelings and effect such material will have on others. All decisions regarding this material is left solely to the editorial staff of Real Estate Solutions.
5. Once submitted or published articles become the property of Real Estate Solutions
